Fadwa Says

J. C. TODD

A cousin moved to Baghdad from Tehran—gone her children—gone

or all of them missing

which may not mean gone

but just beyond reach

which may mean alive.

Or not. It's war,

Fadwa says, and there's no fog in her

sorrow and clarity.

Ten years, no word.

Wishing no one dead

even if they are.